CALL FOR PROPOSALS

«The sources of the crisis: comparative law perspectives»

The Association for Constitutional Law Studies «Gruppo di Pisa» (gruppodipisa.it) has launched a call of proposals for young scholars (PhD students – post doctoral researchers), whether Italian or foreign, with a scientific expertise in the fields of Public, Constitutional, Administrative, European, International or Comparative Law.

Selected speeches will be presented during the afternoon session of the Third Seminar on Comparative Law, focused on the following topic: “The sources of the crisis: comparative law perspectives”.

The Seminar, organized by the Association “Gruppo di Pisa”, will take place remotely on March 25th, 2022, and it will be virtually hosted by the University of Brescia.

The purpose of the Seminar is to discuss, from a comparative perspective, the effects of the current “crisis” on the sources of law. Particularly, the Seminar aims to analyze how different crisis phenomena, such as economic and healthy ones, have been impacting on the production of the law and its contents.

The afternoon session will be organized into different workshops, considering the topic areas.

Selected proposals, aimed at encouraging the comparison between the young scholars, the speakers of the Seminar and the other participants, must not exceed 10 minutes.

The working languages will be Italian, English, French or Spanish.

Proposals will have to focus on one of the following topic areas:

- 1) The levels of law production in the context of crisis: the supranational perspective;

- 2) The levels of law production in the context of crisis: the national and regional perspective;
- 3) The external factors influencing the law production in times of crisis: necessity, urgency, emergency, between fact and law;
- 4) The external factors influencing the law production in times of crisis: technology, science and financial constraints.

Proposals on Domestic, Supranational or International Law will be considered as long as the Candidate offers consistent comparative perspectives.

Proposals must be submitted in Italian, English, French or Spanish by February 28th, 2022 by sending an e-mail to: callunimi2020@gmail.com

The application must include:

- a) an abstract (10,000 characters spaces included in *.doc, *.docx or *.odt format), which must include the title and the indication of the topic area;
- b) a curriculum vitae et studiorum. All personal data not required by the call have to be removed.

The Scientific Committee will select successful proposals, in case a scientific publication will be considered.

The editorial criteria and the deadline for papers submission will be communicated after the Seminar by e-mail only to the participants selected for the publication.
